Jamie,

EPA suggests replacing the sentence with the following:

The EPA is working to gather more information on GenX, which is a compound not regulated under the Clean Water Act or Safe Drinking Water Act. The agency is committed to supporting states and public water systems as next steps are determined.

Jamie,

Just left you s couple of voicemails at your desk/cell. We're concerned that the following sentence in the state's press release isn't accurate. Can you hold on issuing until we can send you corrected language that reflects EPA's position?

The EPA, which is the lead agency responsible for establishing drinking water standards, is working to establish guidance on unregulated compounds such as GenX that North Carolina and other states can use to develop potential regulations for the chemical compound.

Got the go-ahead. Given it's so late in the day, do we want to hold until tomorrow? What time is good for release? Maybe 9:30 or 10 am EST?

Thank you, Davina. Today works for me as well.

Please note:

To be safe, I've used redline to propose deletion of the sentence referring to the Community Survey because of my uncertainty regarding whether the Community Survey will be finalized in time, so that it can be printed before next Tuesday, June 20.

Good morning, Jamie and Christine.

Please see the attached updated version of the release. I removed the word "confidentially" from the first sentence in the paragraph re. the public availability sessions. I also added a statement re. Superfund Sites that we are appending to all our Superfund-related press releases. You of course do not need to include this in your versions, but I wanted to make you aware.

We hope to get the greenlight to issue this here shortly and I will reach to both of you to firm up timing. We are aiming to circulate this today.

Thanks,

Subject: Multistate Trust: Navassa - Press Release (June 20 Public Availability Sessions and Public Meeting)

All,

Please see the attached draft press release about the June 20 Public Availability Sessions and Public Meeting. Please send your changes and comments when you are able.

Question: Is NOAA participating in the Availability Sessions?

Apologies for the delay. Let me know if you have any questions. Thanks.
